BOY GROOM AND A WINTER BRIDE

Youth Takes a Wife of Experience, Who Was Born During the Civil War.

WILL DRIVE TO ARKANSAS

Taking a Honeymoon in a Brand New Studebaker—As Happy as Playful Kittens.

It was a genuine wedding of winter and springtime. There was no bashful bride, for she had been over the shoals before and as for the groom, although he was tender in years, he had no flush of embarrassment on his cheeks, for he has been hardened in the show business. Came there to the county clerk's office this afternoon a tall and willowy widow of forty-three winters and a young man of prepossessing appearance, who had only passed nineteen milestones on life's journey. They wanted a marriage license. It was the old story of "rather be an old woman's darling than a young woman's roustabout." And happy! They displaced more happiness to the square inch than any couple that has crossed the portals there for many days. The young man was Clyde C. Cadle, son of Henry G. Cadle, a laborer of Homer, this county. The bride was Mrs. Sarah J. Dinkens, who lived in this city for five years doing housework.

County Clerk Norris sent for Rev. Clark while Deputy Spradling asked the hundred and one questions attending the issuing of a license. After Rev. Clark had performed a typical summer marriage he turned to groom and said:

"You may now kiss the bride."

And you needn't think it was a stage kiss that he planted upon her wrinkled lips. Not so! It was one of those smacking kind that the latter day osculation experts call "soul kisses."

The father of the boy was present and seemed more concerned than either of the other two. It was he who told the story. Might know there was a tinge of romance to it all. The widow was born during the Civil war and while not a stately, queenly beauty, still she is honest and has money. Recently she sold two pieces of property here. She is just eight years older than the boy's mother, but what difference does that make, when the happy pair declare in no uncertain terms, that they love each other to death. Marrying elderly women is hereditary in the Cadle family. The boy's grandfather married an old maid when he was seventeen years of age. And he never regretted it. So the story goes.

Yesterday, the people of Homer—and the boy's father among them—were astonished when they saw young Cadle driving into town with a fine new wagon and a dandy team of horses. The secret soon leaked out. They were ante-nuptial presents from the bride-to-be. Why, she just thinks the world of the boy and he reciprocates the mad love. They will leave this county. Together, the happy pair will drive to Fort Smith, Arkansas, in the wagon, where the boy-husband will do teaming.

And can you picture anything more romantic for a novel honeymoon than driving along strange country roads these heavenly June nights with the one you loved tucked up close to you in a straw filled wagon bed? Doubtless they will drive along, saying sweet nothings, listening to the chirp of the crickets, and the clug-clug of the motor cars, and not giving a whit whether they get lost or not. Who is to care? As long as they are together, what do they care about the remainder of the world. That's the way they love each other. You never saw anything like it.

When the boy was fourteen years old he was pretty much of a town cut-up around Homer. It was then he made up his mind to be a clown. He ran away with the Wallace circus but never got any closer to wearing the white paint on his face than what he got off his apron in the cook's tent. But he was not to be discouraged. The next year he joined a medicine show and played Irish, Swede, Negro and Dutch parts and picked up some on the guitar. It was while playing here three weeks ago with a medicine show on the public square that he won his way into the heart of the woman whom today he claimed for a bride. The father says he fully approves of the wedding for the boy has always been a reckless sort and he believes he will now settle down with the motherly old soul for a life companion.

EXPECT NO WHEAT DURING THIS MONTH

Prospects For a Good Crop Are Better Than in Many Sections.

AVERAGE ABOUT 75 PER CENT

There will be no wheat harvested in Rush county in June, say the farmers of this locality. The wet weather has kept the stalk green, so that harvesting will be a week later than in many other parts of the State. The wheat is in good condition, though they say and will yield a 75 per cent crop, which is better than in some localities. It was feared that the recent wet weather would bring red dust, but this disease has not yet appeared on the stalks. There are no evidences of the Hessian fly, the pest that so often destroys the crop at this stage.

The cool nights, the farmers say, which are occurring now, are very favorable to a successful ripening of the crop.

SHE OFTEN VISITS HERE.

Miss Pearl E. Tyner started Monday on an extended trip in the West, says the Greenfield Reporter. Mrs. Tyner will visit at Walnut Grove, Ill., first, but will spend most of her time on a ranch in Nebraska. She may go to the coast before she returns. Mrs. Tyner made a similar trip three years ago.

SOME "DRY" READING.

REFUSE TO TALK FOR PUBLICATION

Local Chinks Carefully Guard Against Discussing the New York Murder.

DOCTOR FROM BOSTON HERE

All They Know is "Nothing"—The Way of the Heathen Chinese is Peculiar.

Charles Yee, proprietor of the local Chinese laundry in West First street, when asked today concerning the murder of Miss Elsie Sigel in New York, professed an absolute ignorance of the occurrence. He has not been in this country long and can scarcely understand the English language and cannot read it at all. He was asked if he was a member of the Hong Soon Tong, the Chinese order which corresponds to the Masonic lodge in this country. He was also totally ignorant of the existence of such an organization, at least he claimed that he never heard of a Chinese lodge or order of any sort. If the large number of the Chinese in this country take no more interest in the capture of Leon Ling, the alleged murderer of Elsie Sigel he will probably never be brought to justice.

He would not talk on the subject and only looked up with a vacant stare, when asked anything about the murder mystery. He said that he had never been in New York very long at a time and never became acquainted with any of his countrymen in "Chinatown," when asked if he knew Leon Ling. The murder mystery did not worry his brain much and when he felt that he had enough of the pertinent reporter, he went back to the "washee," but lo, he ushered in a new character, who was to take more interest in the affair.

After several peculiar gestures the stranger managed to inquire what the visitor wanted. He was no other than the "famous" Chinese doctor, Yee Jun Wah of Boston who has been here on a visit for several days. He is very learned and shows it by the dignity with which he carries his stately person. He was also loath to speak of the Sigel murder mystery. He feigned ignorance of the whole affair and said that he had never heard anything about it, although he had been in this country twenty-six years and has had a well-rounded education. He claimed that he could not read English and could hardly understand when addressed in that language.

"Are you a member of the Hong Soon Tong society?" was inquired. He managed to explain in the meantime maintaining a very placid countenance that he knew nothing of such an organization. When it was explained to him that it seemed very strange that he had lived in this country over a quarter of a century and had no knowledge of such an order, which was so powerful among the Chinese in this country, it made no visible impression on him and he only shook his head in silence with an expression of perfect ease on his face and all the time pulling on his cigar vigorously. Of course they knew all about it, but—the ways of the Heathen Chinese are peculiar and withal, cunning.

LOOKING FOR FACTORIES.

Bert DePrez and other leading members of the Citizens' Industrial Club, says the Shelbyville News, are planning to go to Cincinnati Tuesday to try to close a deal for bringing a shoe factory to this city in connection with the regular work of the club in its efforts to build up a greater Shelbyville.

Rushville is going to boom.

ASK TO SELECT FIVE DELEGATES

Mayor Cowing Appoints Five Men to Attend the National Irrigation Congress.

WILL MEET IN SPOKANE, WASH.

August 9th to 14th, Inclusive—Interesting Program Prepared For Every Day.

The seventeenth national irrigation congress will be held in Spokane, Washington, August 9 to 14, inclusive. Mayor Harvey Cowing is in receipt of a letter from Arthur Hooker, secretary of the board of control in which he asks that the mayor appoint five delegates from this city to attend the congress. Five delegates are allotted to every city with a population of under twenty-five thousand and ten delegates to every city in the United States over twenty-five thousand. Delegates are also selected by other organizations so that the congress when assembled includes several thousand members.

The personnel of the assembly includes the permanent officers of the congress: the president, vice president of the United States, the members of the cabinet, members of the United States senate and house of representatives, governors of States, territories and insular possessions of the United States, and the members of the State, territorial and insular irrigation and forestry commissions.

The four great objects of the congress are to save the forest, store the floods, re-claim the deserts, and make homes on the land. The promoters aim to demonstrate to the West the wonderful development possible through irrigation, drainage, forestry, deep waterways, good roads and home-building and to show to the East the economic importance to the whole country of this development. Speakers will be allotted not to exceed twenty minutes on any subject, which will be followed by general discussions on the part of the delegates, limited to five minute talks. It is planned to make a practical, live meeting for the consideration and discussion of questions in which the delegates are interested, and its actions may be of great value in the promotion of the objects for which the congress is working.

All foreign governments have been invited to send delegates and most of them have sent word that they will be represented. The program will consist of addresses by government officials of the forestry and agricultural department, statesmen and scientists, railroad and financial magnates and officials of private irrigation enterprises. The governor of each State and territory in the Union has been requested to come, together with his officials and be present on Governors' Day, for which one day of the congress will be set apart.

The committee on arrangements has urged that all officials, who have within their power the appointment of one or more delegates will make the selections immediately and then send in the notice of appointment with full name, occupation and post-office address of each delegate to the chairman or secretary of the board of control.

Abiding by their requests Mayor Cowing has appointed the following five delegates from this city to attend: Fon Riggs, Nathan Weeks, Will Bliss, Ab Denning, and Fred Capp.

LOCATED HIS COUSINS HERE

Whom he Had Not Seen For Over Thirty Years.

A. N. McCague, a Chicago book agent, who has been around Rushville for a week, accidentally located two first cousins here, the Misses Kerrs of North Morgan street. It has been thirty years since he saw them before, when he used to visit on their farm in Ohio as a boy.

FARMERS DOING MOST OF BUILDING

Carpenters Generally Are Employed, But Nearly All the Work is in the Country.

TARIFF REVISION IS THE CAUSE

Carpenters of the city are generally employed, but the greater part of the building work done thus far this year is for farmers in the country adjacent to the city. However, there are several good houses in the city for which plans have been drawn and contractors are getting figures from supply men preparatory to submitting bids. There is no question that the uncertainty of the outcome of tariff on lumber and other materials that may be affected has its effect in causing people to hesitate in building operations. A few empty houses in the city have also discouraged building for rental purposes, but these houses are gradually filling up so that only a small number now remain. Indeed, if the large local factories get things going soon, as there is every reason that they will, the house problem is one that may soon have to be met.

NOW, WILL YOU BE GOOD.

Greenfield Reporter: "The Greensburg Standard says a Rush county farmer is said to have made the following unique announcement: "Anyone desiring a big fat hog, come out and see me." The Standard fails to say anything about the prominent sheep raiser of Decatur county who tried to butt his brains out because he subscribed for Ram's Horn, thinking it was devoted to sheep raising."

* STUFFED HIS SHOES * AND THEY CAUGHT FIRE *

Bert Adair, one of the best known traveling salesmen visiting Rushville, had a very peculiar experience Monday night at Richmond. When on the road he is compelled to remain one night in Richmond. He takes great care of his shoes especially in rainy weather, and Monday his footwear was damp when he retired. Thinking to hold them in shape, he poked his handkerchief and some paper into the shoes. In the morning when he got up he found nothing but the charred remains of what was once a good shoe. He cannot account for the fire unless it was spontaneous combustion. The leather of the shoe was burned entirely, but the fire did not ignite the floor covering. Bert is figuring on putting his shoes on ice hereafter.

CHARLES VAIL HAS NEW CHARGE

Former Resident Has Accepted the Christian Pastorate at Hemet, California.

GOES HIGHLY RECOMMENDED

The New Pastor and His Wife Were Accorded a Pleasant Reception.

The Hemet, California, News has three articles concerning the advent of Rev. Charles S. Vail into their community and the hearty reception accorded him; Rev. Vail, it will be remembered was connected with the Daily Republican in a reportorial way for nearly a year and left the field here to take up ministry. The News says in part:

Elder Charles S. Vail, of Stockwell, Ind., has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Christian church at Hemet, and will deliver his first sermon Sunday, in Ferguson hall, at 11 a. m.

For some time the Christian church at Hemet has been endeavoring to secure a good man to take charge of the work here, and from the credentials which Elder Vail carries from the people of Stockwell, Ind., where he was pastor of the church for some time, and especially the kind feelings of the pastors of the various other churches, which gave expression in letters of commendation it seems the church is very fortunate in securing this brilliant young man and his wife to cast their lot with the Christian church people in Hemet. He comes highly recommended both as a Christian man and a speaker. He has traveled much, making a tour around the world, and has spent considerable time in Bible lands, and his descriptions and other biblical elucidations will be supplemented by the true knowledge of things as they actually existed in Palestine and other lands of the Bible, enabling him to speak entertainingly and at the same time to impart a knowledge which is only gained by experience and observation.

Elder Vail has delivered a large number of lectures on his travels, under the subject "Around the World with Uncle Sam." According to press comments his lectures were excellent. * * * The pastor, C. S. Vail, preached in the morning on "Pilate's Question," to a large audience, and when the invitation was given, four came forward, two by confession and two by statement. At the evening service the pastor preached on "A Wife's Mistake," at which time four more came forward and made the confession, all of whom were young men. Elder Vail has preached four Sundays and there have been thirteen added to the church. * * * The reception given Elder Charles S. Vail and wife, in Ferguson Hall, last Saturday evening was one of the most pleasant affairs of the season. A short program had been prepared, consisting of music and recitations, which although impromptu, were rendered in a highly pleasing and entertaining manner. Revs. Mullen, Pearce and J. W. Mount were present, and Revs. Mullen and Pearce delivered encouraging talks, wishing Elder Vail success in his new field. Elder Vail made a pleasing address and was very glad that he came to Hemet. About 150 people were present, and all joined in extending the new minister a hearty welcome.

Gray Hair Restored

My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.

Grew Hair on a Bald Head

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fairly covered and keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

INJUNCTION TIES UP THE CAR MEN

Vanderburg Court Makes Restraining Order Permanent.

TIES HANDS OF STRIKERS

In Making Permanent His Recent Order Restraining the Striking Street Railway Men at Evansville From Interfering With the Operations of the Line, Judge Debruler Lays Down the Law in Plain Terms.—All Forms of Interference Enjoined.

Evansville, Ind., June 23.—Judge C. A. Debruler of the circuit court handed down his decision in the injunction case of the Evansville & Southern Indiana Traction company. Every point in the restraining order issued two weeks ago was upheld by the court and the injunction was continued without modification.

By the injunction Ben Commons, national organizer for the carmen's union; Matthew Hollenberger, members of the carmen's union and their friends "are prohibited from in any manner interfering with, hindering or stopping the business of the company or the employees in the operation of the cars; from picketing along the lines of the company or near the car barns or other property belonging to the traction company; and from assaulting or intimidating by threats or otherwise, the employees of the company or any persons who may seek to become employees.

IDENTIFICATION MIXED

Woman Who Mourned Husband's Death, Faints On Learning Truth.

Michigan City, Ind., June 23.—The identification of the body of E. E. Moore of Hillsdale, Mich., by his son, Edward Moore, in the morgue at Chesterton, affords one of the most unique cases of the kind. Young Moore's identification was not given credence by Coroner Carson, Undertaker Lundberg and others about the morgue at first. They thought the young man was out of his head.

The cause for this belief was the previous identification of the same body as that of Emil Lundgren of Porter. Mrs. Lundgren had mourned her husband as dead since the wreck. She and a dozen or more villagers identified the body as that of her husband, and she made arrangements for the funeral. She was dazed by the information from the Hillsdale young man.

Finally Mr. Lundgren, who works in Moline, Ill., was reached by long-distance telephone.

"Hello, Hattie," came the reply. "Is that you, Emil? Really you?" the woman cried, and then fell in a faint. Emil was not even in the wreck.

Plead Guilty to Manslaughter.

Boonville, Ind., June 23.—The murder trial from Dubois county, in which Frank Gehlhausen and Frank Drach were charged with the first degree murder of Charles Schum, was suddenly ended in the circuit court here when the defendants entered pleas of guilty to the count charging them with manslaughter. The murder of Schum occurred during a drunken brawl. More than one hundred witnesses had been summoned from Dubois county and there was promise of a long drawn-out trial.

Two Fatally Hurt In Runaway.

Hammond, Ind., June 23.—Two were fatally injured in a runaway accident here. Mrs. Mary Greski, age twenty-four, had both legs broken and was internally injured. Hank Seiba's hip was fractured, and he was internally injured. Seiba was driving a bakery wagon drawn by a team of horses, and Mrs. Greski stopped him to make purchases. The horses became frightened at a train.

His Whistle Annoyed Her.

Evansville, Ind., June 23.—Mary Axton, a middle-aged woman, was fined $41 and costs for being disorderly. She did not like the whistle of the "frozen dainty" man who passed her house every day, and the evidence introduced at the trial showed she pulled his nose until he screamed for mercy.

Jury In Wilson Case.

Connersville, Ind., June 23.—The task of selecting a jury in the second trial of John Wilson, charged with the murder of his wife, has been completed. More than eighty men were examined before the jury was selected. With one exception the jurors are from Rush county. Interest is as great as at the former trial.

Gray's Trial In Progress.

Marion, Ind., June 23.—The trial of William P. Gray on the charge of murder began here today. Gray shot Alonza Bellville, his brother-in-law, June 1, at Upland, after the two had been bitter enemies for two years. The grand jury indicted Gray on the charge of murder in the second degree.

CHINESE MINISTER AROUSSED

Bids Countrymen to Give Ling Up.

ISSUES FORMAL ORDER

Elsie Sigel's Murderer Under Official Ban.

DETAILS OF SORDID CRIME

Roommate of Fugitive Tells How Shocking Deed Was Done.

Washington, June 23.—Minister Wu has appealed to his countrymen in this city to aid in the capture of Leon Ling by a poster in Chinese characters. It reads as follows:

"All Chinamen are bidden to give no succor to Leon Ling, and to direct their best efforts to bringing him to justice as an unworthy man who has brought disgrace upon his countrymen in America."

CHINESE CONFESSES

Chung Sin Comes Through Under Pressure of "Third Degree."

New York, June 23.—Baited and intimidated by detectives, threatened with prosecution and confused with rapid-fire questions, Chung Sin, once roommate of Leon Ling, told of Elsie Sigel's murder. Under the terrific pressure of the "third degree," the little Chinaman admitted that he had seen the body in Leon Ling's room, that he had touched it while it was still warm, that he had smelled drugs and had watched Leon Ling's preparations for placing the body in the trunk where it was found horribly decomposed last Friday night.

Chung Sin, in fact, if what was learned at the criminal courts building is correct, described almost everything concerning the murder of Maj. Gen. Franz Sigel's granddaughter except the actual commission of the crime. He denied any implication in it and protested stoutly that he was ignorant of the whereabouts of Ling, the supposed murderer. After the inquisition he was taken before Coroner Harburger and held in $10,000 bail in the house of detention to await the inquest.

Given the Third Degree.

Chung Sin, is thirty-five years old and a native of Canton. He was arrested at West Galway, N. Y., a small hamlet near Amsterdam, and was brought to New York. Immediately after his arrest up-state and all during the trip by train to this city he was pitted with questions, bullied, persuaded and entangled in a mass of significant questions. It was not until last evening, however, that his spirit was sufficiently broken or sufficient inducements were offered, as the case may be, for him to cast aside his air of stolidness and tell of the death of the young missionary. Then, smoking cigarette after cigarette to quiet his nerves, the Chinaman told brokenly but with brutal bluntness of the girl's death. He was surrounded at the time in the office of Assistant District Attorney Ward by detectives from police headquarters, who previously had put him through a grilling. Mr. Ward and District Attorney Jerome also were present, and from what can be learned it was Mr. Jerome himself who finally drew the story from Chung Sin's lips. He was told that Leon Ling had been captured and had laid the blame upon his (Chung Sin's) shoulders. This, together with the persistent hammering at the prisoner, brought the confession. It was made partly in English and partly in Chinese, for there was an interpreter present, and was taken down by stenographers. No statement of the gist of his remarks was made public, but the more salient facts of the confession soon became known about the building.

Elsie Was Choked to Death.

From the man's story it is apparent that Elsie Sigel first was drugged with chloroform and then choked to death. She was killed apparently on the night of June 9, although Chung Sin appeared a little mixed in his dates. But he says that early in the morning of June 10 he heard a strange noise in Leon's room, adjoining his, and looking over the transom saw the girl lying on the bed with a bloody towel over mouth. He passed through the room, he said, to go out to wash his hands and as he did so felt of the body, which was still warm. After he went down to the chop suey restaurant below, he returned to the room. Leon in the meantime had covered the body with a blanket up to the chin and had pulled a trunk to the middle of the floor. The trunk Leon was calmly emptying preparatory to placing the body therein. The rope with which the body was bound was lying on the floor at the time, according to Chung Sin. Once again he went downstairs, said Chung Sin, where he remained until Leon called him. When he entered the room the body was not visible, having been bound with the rope and placed in the trunk.

Said She Bit Her Tongue.

At this point of the story the Chinaman was asked savagely if he had not assisted in putting the body in the trunk. Chung Sin started perceptibly, but said that he had had no hand in it. "I didn't see her no more," said Chung Sin, "and when I asked Leon how she died, he said she had bitten her tongue and bled to death."

Leon told him, Chung Sin added, that he was going to send the trunk to Jersey City, thence to Europe. As a matter of fact it lay untouched in the stuffy little room until Sun Leung, proprietor of the restaurant below, noticed the odor about the building and summoned the police.

Until Chung Sin's complete account is made public it will not be explained why he saw the dead girl and the preparations for the removal of the body with such apparent unconcern at that time. Also, despite repeated interrogations, he declined to say just what happened in the room when the girl was murdered. He admitted having heard a scuffle in the room during the night, and told of Elsie having arrived on the previous afternoon, the day when she disappeared from her home. "Did Leon take her there, or did she go of her own accord?" he was asked.

"She went there alone?"
"Was she in love with Leon or Leon in love with her?" was another question. At this Chung Sin relapsed into silence and then only smiled and shook his head. He indicated, however, that the girl had sought out the Chinaman.

CHINESE BIDDEN TO GIVE UP LEON LING

Powerful Oriental Society to Aid Justice.

Indianapolis, June 23.—Indianapolis has become one of the centers of work in the investigation of the murder of Elsie Sigel, the New York missionary worker, who was killed by Chinese and whose dead body was found in a trunk in a room adjoining a chop suey restaurant building.

The search for Leon Ling, the supposed murderer of the girl, has been taken up by the Hong Soon Tong, a secret society that is commonly known among the English-speaking people as the Chinese Masons.

Chin Gum Sing, known in Indianapolis as E. Lung, a North Delaware street laundryman and merchant, is at the head of the society in America, and he is perhaps the best known Chinese among his own countrymen in America. It is estimated that 90 per cent of the Chinese in America belong to the Hong Soon Tong, and the officers said that Leon Ling would surely be captured with their assistance. Even if he escapes to China or some other section of the world, sooner or later he will be turned up by the members of the society. An official edict of the order has been sent out by mail to other officers of the society about the country. E. Lung said the atrocious crime was a blot on the usual peaceful character of the yellow man and that it was up to the Chinese of the country to clear up the murder and bring the guilty ones to justice. Even if it is found that Leon Ling, or any other Chinese shown to be the murderer, is a member of the society he will be surrendered to the police if he is caught. The Chinese believe that it is not improbable that Leon Ling will be found in this part of the country. Many of the fugitive's relatives, known under the family name of Ling, live in Dayton, O., and vicinity, while others are scattered over Indiana. They said the fugitive probably would stop and ask to be kept in hiding at the homes of some of his relatives.

USED SLIPPER AS BAILER

Girl in South Dakota Saved the Boat From Being Swamped.

Watertown, S. D., June 23.—The presence of mind of Miss Marie Best, who bailed water with her slipper from a boat in which she and Gale Whiting were caught in a storm, all the time they were going across Lake Kampeska, saved the lives of herself and companion. Every wave, sent water into the boat, but the young woman bailed away with her slipper without stopping until the boat, fifty yards from the shore, went down. They were then in shallow water and walked out to safety.

FREEDOM'S CUP RAISED TO LIPS

Only to Be Snatched Away When Mistake Was Noted.

SINGULAR COURT INCIDENT

Through Error of Clerk Verdict of "Not Guilty" Was Delivered Instead of the Real Verdict of Imprisonment For Life In the Case of a Chicago Highwayman.—The Latter Was Joyously Tripping to Freedom When He Was Recalled to Hear Doom Read.

Chicago, June 23.—The cup of freedom was held to the lips of a prisoner in Judge Brentano's court only to be snatched away when it was discovered that the clerk of the court should have read the jury's verdict as "guilty" instead of "not guilty."

The prisoner, who was caught at the very door of the courtroom, believing himself free, was Frank O'Donnell, accused of robbing a citizen at the point of a revolver. When the clerk read "not guilty" O'Donnell jumped from his seat, excitedly laughing and wrung his lawyer's hand. The accused man started from the room with his head in the air, his eyes sparkling. When the mistake was discovered O'Donnell was brought back. His head sank on his chest as the real verdict was delivered:

"Guilty and condemned to serve the term of his natural life in prison."

Georgia Mob Is After Negro Who Shot a White Family.

Dublin, Ga., June 23.—Enraged because he had been discharged, Robert Jenkins, a negro, shot and killed George Howell, a wealthy planter, fatally wounded Mrs. Howell and then shot at their young son. The Howells were in the front yard of their home when the negro approached. Without saying a word he emptied one barrel of a shotgun into Howell, killing him instantly. Mrs. Howell turned to run, but was shot down, falling on her husband's body.

The negro fled and is now being chased by hundreds of citizens with bloodhounds. It is said he is surrounded in a swamp near the scene of the tragedy. It is openly stated that he will be lynched.

TONGUE BIT BY A MYSTERIOUS SIGNAL

Witness in Chicago Murder Trial Halted on Stand.

Chicago, June 23.—The trial of Joseph Bertucci, an alleged "Black Hand" murderer, came to a sudden halt in Judge Windes' court here when an Italian entered the courtroom and waved a handkerchief at Bruno Nardi, the star witness for the state, who had just taken the stand. The unknown Italian then fled. Detectives pursued, but could not find him. Nardi thereafter could not be induced to answer any more questions, saying he would be killed if he testified against Bertucci. The same fear was expressed by Nardi's wife, also a material witness, and the prosecutor was forced to adjourn the trial.

Bertucci and Nardi were arrested after the killing of Vito Umbrello in an alley January 23. Umbrello is said to have been murdered because of his refusal to heed two letters demanding money sent him by the two Italians. The state's attorney nonsuited the case against Nardi, expecting to use him as the chief witness against Bertucci.

THIS AND THAT

Of course Pittsburg would have to figure in that New York tragedy in some way.

If a fellow holds up two fingers "at you," go with him. It either means two beers or "let's go swimmin'." Either is timely.

After the Wright brothers went through that ordeal of a big homecoming and welcome they are surely conditioned for any test the government might exact of them.

The good citizens of Wayne and Henry county are putting forward a mighty effort to "check" that suit case brigade business.

No matter how well you do a thing you are sure to hear more complaints than compliments, and the man who does nothing puts it all over the rest of us in one respect. He never makes a mistake of any consequence.

In one picture show in the metropolitan newspaper of that Chinese fugitive murder from New York, the Chink looks like composite Swede, Irishman and German. No wonder they can't find him.

Now the police are on the lookout for the "yellow leg" and have given up the chase of the "black hand."

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

A HOT HOUSE.

(Greenfield Reporter.)

County Commissioners Linza Walker has a swarm of bees at his home in Jackson township, that came to his house unannounced Sunday, and settled in the kitchen chimney. He will permit them to remain there until fall.

AN ADDED ATTRACTION

(Greensburg News.)

For the first time since it took up its residence on the court house tower, possibly not more than a few weeks ago, a tiny tree was noticed this morning. The little tree, or twig, which it appears to be, is sprouting from the cornice of the tower on the south side, and appears to be not more than six inches in height.

OR WEAR RAT TRAPS.

(St Paul Telegram.)

F. M. Allison was sleeping peacefully at his country home near St. Omer a few nights ago, when a large rat ran upon the bed and bit Mr. Allison on the head. Mr. Allison has not been saying much about it, but the story leaked out through a relative. We would advise him to lay in a supply of Maltese cats and ferrets to prevent a recurrence of the injury from rodents.—St Paul.

SOME "AIR DOOMED" STOCK.

(New Castle Courier.)

There is a pretty good line of "kid-din'" going on about town with reference to some who got in on the "ground floor" in securing stock in the air dome company, which was promoted here last fall and which was given support an encouragement from some parties which made the proposition look good, at least for a day or two. The little pleasantries goes along good naturedly, as no one is known to have been stung hard enough to hurt, but at the same time it affords some amusement for those who happen to know about it.

The promoters of the scheme, who were strangers, no doubt had good intentions, and they may possibly make good some day but they left town and the boys who donated

Verchow

The Greatest Physician of His Time.

"If we should expunge all that medicine as a science, directly and indirectly, owes to him, comparatively little would be left"—this is what recently was said by a distinguished physician of Rudolf Virchow, who was born eighty-eight years ago, the son of a small merchant in the village of Schivelbein, Pomerania.

It is equally true that there are living today, in good health and in full enjoyment of life, millions of people in all parts of the world who, if Rudolf Virchow had never lived, would be in their graves.

The whole fabric of modern medicine is based largely on what Virchow, the son of an insignificant shop keeper learned and taught. If the world were yet sufficiently civilized to pay greater honor to its life-savers than to its life-takers, there would be statues to Virchow in every city of America and Europe, stately memorials to the great scientist erected by those whose lives he indirectly saved.

Virchow assumed the title of M. D. in 1843, and five years later, as the member of a government commission sent to investigate an epidemic of typhus in Silesia, he produced a report so original and brilliant as to place have about given up all hopes of ever seeing them again.

IS NOT NEW METHOD HERE.

(New Castle Courier.)

Several squares of Indiana avenue west of Main street, are being oiled by the residents, and the job is being done by Frank Kiser, under the direction of Frank Crim, local agent for the Standard Oil company. The work is being done with a new system, which includes a thorough sweeping and cleaning of the roadway before the oil is applied. It is believed that this will make the coat of oil last much longer and result in a nicer looking street.

Several residents over the city are watching the Indiana avenue job with interest, for it is the first done in this manner. The street is also blockaded until the oil soaks in.

COMING RATHER HIGH.

(Shelbyville Republican.)

A citizen of Decatur county has brought suit against a neighbor for $10,000 damages, alleging the neighbor hugged his wife over a barbed wire fence. We think the fellow is unreasonable. If it is worth $10,000 to hug a woman over a barbed wire fence, how much would it be worth to hug her over a smooth wire fence? Again, how much would it be worth with no wire at all? And, again, how much would it be worth to hug her in the old man's parlor on a settee? If you start with $10,000 with a barbed wire obstruction, country editors could never reach the parlors. You're too high, old man, too high.

him among the foremost ranks of the world's healers.

He was rewarded with a professorship in the University of Berlin, where he founded his famous "Archives of Pathological Anatomy," which has been published ever since. He was in high favor with the powers that ruled in Germany until the breaking out of the revolution in 1848-1849. As one who had sprung from the proletariat, he held decidedly radical views, and for this he was expelled from the University of Berlin.

Going to the University of Wurzburg, he began a course of investigation which resulted in his greatest discovery, the theory of the cellular nature of animal tissue, announced in his book "Cellular Pathology." This work marked a veritable revolution in medical science and made the author famous throughout the world.

There followed one valuable, if startling, discovery after another. Medical knowledge of tuberculosis, tumors, diphtheria and of the brain is largely what Virchow made it. He was also an authority on many other sciences, and as a practical politician of the Radical party, served twenty-five years in the Prussian Chamber, and later was elected to the Reichstag. He died in Berlin, September 5, 1902.

PRICE IS BASED ON ADVANTAGES

Desirableness of Well Improved Small

Tracts of Land Cannot be Estimated.

LOCATION IS THE MAIN ASSET

The Purchase of Land Near Traction

Line Will Bring Good Profit on the Investment.

The desirableness of well improved, well located small tracts of land can hardly be estimated. When it comes to purchasing such tracts the price is not estimated on the per cent of profit such places would return on the investment. The price is based on the comforts, pleasures and advantages the place would afford the owner, in addition to the proceeds that would be derived from it.

Small, well improved tracts of land located near some good town or city or school lose the investment feature just like a home in the city which costs its owner more money to erect than he could sell it for, and which will in all probability never bring in any per cent on the investment. Its attraction and value is based almost entirely on the comforts which it affords the owner. And still, in many cases, such places in Rush county have sold within the past few years at what seemed to be very high prices, have been resold at handsome advances, and though it seems now the climax of high prices has been reached, still they will continue to increase, and probably double their increased values in a decade. A man can scarcely make a mistake in buying a farm anywhere in Rush county, but if he buys land on the electric line he is sure to make a nice profit on his investments. The Indianapolis and Cincinnati electric line is especially good territory in which to buy.

INDIANA POLITICS

By Robert G. Tucker.

Indianapolis, June 23.—The appointment of Dr. Harry C. Sharp of Indianapolis to succeed William H. Hart as a member of the board of trustees for the Indiana reformatory has revived the talk that Governor Marshall is going after the job now held by Superintendent William H. Whittaker of that institution. Dr. Sharp was surgeon at the reformatory for several years, resigning during the last campaign. It has been said that he quit because he and Whittaker could not agree, but it is declared by Sharp's friends that he resigned merely because he wanted to come to Indianapolis to reside. Owing to the talk, however, of bad feeling between Sharp and Whittaker, and the general belief among politicians that the governor is not pleased with Whittaker as superintendent, many regard the appointment of Sharp as a warning to Whittaker that he would do a smart thing for himself if he would resign. Sharp is familiar with the reformatory's affairs, having been there under the administration of A. T. Hert as superintendent. If things have been going wrong it is expected that he will be able to find them out. The appointment of the superintendent is made by the board of trustees, and three of the appointees are men who have served with Whittaker for two or three years. The board, however, will become a Marshall board within the next two years. Whittaker says that he does not regard the appointment of Sharp as unfriendly to him and that he does not propose to resign. It is said here that the governor appointed Sharp because he regarded him as a good man for the place and that he has no intention whatever of playing politics at the reformatory.

In hopes of clearing the field for the Republican nomination for mayor so that ex-Attorney General William L. Taylor can have it all by himself, efforts have been made during the last few days to get Lew Shank and William N. Harding to withdraw from the race. It was learned today that within the last week a meeting of Edwin Logsdon, William E. Davis and other well known Republican politicians was held for the purpose of furthering the movement to place Taylor on the ticket. Harding is said to have been invited to the meeting and to have been told positively that if he would withdraw Taylor would become a candidate. It is understood that he was informed that Shank would be taken care of, so that if Harding withdrew Taylor would not have any opposition. It is declared, however, that Harding had received a tip from some one that Taylor had changed front and was not only willing, but anxious to head the ticket provided he could be nominated by the entire party. When the situation was presented to Harding he informed the party leaders that he could not withdraw under the circumstances and that he would remain in the contest if he received only one vote at the primaries.

The state accounting board—W. A. De Hority, chief examiner; C. C. Boltz and W. M. Fogarty, deputies—visited the convention of state municipal officers at Lafayette today. They will not attend the convention officially, but merely for information, and will take no part in the program.

Tuberculosis led all diseases in causing Indiana deaths during May, according to the report of the state board of health just issued. During the month 179 males and 205 females succumbed to the white plague, and as a result 190 children were left orphans.

Washington, June 23.—At a White House conference last night an agreement was reached by President Taft, Attorney General Wickersham, Secretary of State Knox, Senator Root and the Republican members of the senate finance committee in regard to the proposed amendment to the tariff bill to place a tax of 2 per cent on the net earnings of corporations.

STUDENTS PLAN TO 'HIKE' OVER EUROPE

Party of Harvard Men Set Sail Today For the Mediterranean—
Trip All on Foot.

THE LACK OF "FILTHY LUCRE"

New York, June 23.—A party of Harvard students, unassisted of only enough of this world's goods to pay their passage to and from Europe in the steerage, but with a large reserve stock of energy and perseverance, set sail today for the Mediterranean. They propose to make a trip on foot through Southern Europe, Egypt and part of Asia, working their way from town to town.

After landing at the Pireus, in Greece, they will walk to Athens. In their trip they will visit Constantinople and the Holy Land, Port Said, Cairo and other interesting places in Egypt. They plan to cover the earthquake district in Southern Italy and Sicily, working north into Europe through Italy. After their return to New York, they will walk to Cambridge.

The entire trip, with the exception of short boat passages across the Mediterranean, will be on foot.

CHAPTER XIV.

BLACKMAIL.

PIKE was still standing with the letter in his hand, looking after Ethel, when he awoke to the realization of what her words meant to him. She had given her promise, and she did not mean that anything in the world should make her revoke it. That promise was sacred to her, just as if it had been spoken before a clergyman.

In his heart Pike knew he would have to give in if he was to make her happy, and yet he knew that in making her temporarily happy he would be making her eternally miserable. If he could have the strength to hold out against her and refuse to sanction the marriage he knew the crew of aristocrats would never accept her without the cash, and that by the terms of John Simpson's will could never be theirs without his consent.

Of his own hopes he could see but the faintest glimmering. He had irretrievably offended the girl, and she would hate him all her life for it, he feared. His entrance into her new phase of life had been unfortunate. His continuance in it was little else than an insult, according to her way of thinking. And Jim Cooley, whom he had trusted to find the flaw in the Hawcastle escutcheon that he knew had existed, had failed him miserably.

The lawyer felt that he was a long way from home. He sighed and turned to where the sun was sinking in a haze of red across the bay. Then he heard the voice of Hogace and chiming with it the cultured accents of Lord Hawcastle. Apparently they were coming to seek him. She had reiterated his refusal.

Wearily he turned again to the automobile and leaned against it. As he did so he heard Horace say:

"But Ethel says Mr. Pike positively refuses."

In return he heard Hawcastle reply:

"Leave him to me. In ten minutes he will be as meek as a lamb."

Dumbly Pike wondered what fresh argument the earl had to offer and mentally steeled himself against it. As he looked up he encountered the steady glare of the earl.

"My dear Pike," began the latter, "there is a certain question—"

"I said I would not discuss that with you. I meant what I said," observed Daniel quietly.

"This is another question," went on the other, heedless of the warning or at least unaffected by it.

"Late this afternoon I developed a great anxiety concerning the penalty prescribed by Italian law for those fortunate and impulsive individuals who connive at the escape or concealment of certain unfortunates who are wanted by the police."

Daniel looked at him, with a smile.

"Soyou're all worked up about that, are you?" Hawcastle glared at him, but went on.

"So deeply that I ascertained the penalty for it. For the person whose kind heart has so betrayed him the penalty is two years in prison, and Italian prisons, I am credibly informed, are unpleasant."

Pike ruminated and folded his letter. "Being in jail ain't much like an Elks' carnival," he observed.

"Even a citizen of your admirable country could not escape if his complicity were proved—if he were caught in the act. I will be plain with you."

These last words had an ominous note. "Let us imagine that a badly wanted man appeared upon the pergola here and made an appeal to one of your countrymen who, for the purposes of argument, is at work upon this car. Say that the too amiable American conceals the fugitive under the automobile and afterward, with the connivance of a friend, deceives the officers of the law and shelters the criminal, say, in a room of that lower suit there."

He looked about in the growing twilight and pointed dramatically to the window. Pike, now thoroughly interested and with his pulse beating a rapid tattoo, followed his finger. The earl went on:

"Imagine, for instance, that the shadow which appears upon that curtain were that of the wanted man. Would you not agree then to a reasonable request?"

Daniel swallowed painfully, for he saw in some manner that that swaying window curtain which had caught his eye an hour ago had held a distinct menace. It seemed too bad that this should be the end of it all—the defenses he had raised for the girl of his head friend should be swept away in an instant by a bit of folly.

"What would be the nature of that request?" he asked.

"It would concern a certain alliance—might concern a certain settlement," the earl replied softly.

"If the request were refused, what would the consequences be?" Pike went on, with lowered eyes, for he would not trust himself to meet those of the nobleman.

"Two years at least in prison for the American."

"Looks bad for—that American, eh?" Pike inquired whimsically.

Lord Hawcastle stepped close to him.

"If this fellow countryman of yours were assured that the law would be permitted to take its course if a favorable answer to a certain question were not received in an hour within that hotel, what, in your opinion, would the answer be?"

Pike looked up from the letter he was twisting in his hands, and his thin shoulders took on a squarer attitude. He looked his antagonist square in the eye, but he did not raise the tone of his voice.

"It would depend a good deal on which of my countrymen you caught. If it depended on the one I know best he'd tell you he'd see you in hades first."

IT IS SERIOUS

Some Rushville People Fail to Realize the Seriousness of a Bad Back.

The constant aching of a bad back. The weariness, the tired feeling. The pains and aches of kidney ills are serious if neglected.

Dangerous urinary troubles follow. A Rushville citizens shows you how to avoid them.

Mrs. William Trennepohl, 1016 West Third street, Rushville, Ind., says: "Though I did not take Doan's Kidney Pills regularly or for any length of time, they benefited me wonderfully and relieved a dull, nagging pain across the small of my back that has caused me great misery. At times I could not lie on my back on account of the severe pain ensued, and I was miserable in every way. My husband procured Doan's Kidney Pills at E. B. Johnson & Co.'s drug store and I am very grateful for the benefit they have brought."

For an instant the earl looked fixedly at Daniel, and his face went red and white by turns. There was a dangerous flash in his eyes, and he stepped a trifle closer and half raised his walking stick. Then, with a muttered oath, he dropped it, picked up his hat from the bench where he had thrown it and walked to the hotel steps.

"You have an hour," he said, menacingly turning. "At the end of that time—we will know what to do."

Daniel must have stood there ten minutes after Hawcastle had gone, and the twilight came down and enveloped him with its softness. As the lights came out here and there he turned and looked over at the windows of Von Grollerhagen's suit and noted the shadow still on the window blind.

"Looks to me like doc's in this thing and ought to be told," he murmured.

He found his way slowly across the grass and up the steps and in another moment tapped upon the door of the German's rooms. The door was opened by Ribiere, who informed him that Von Grollerhagen was dressing. He found his friend adjusting his white cravat before a mirror.

Within five minutes he had acquainted the other with all that had passed and had received a smile in return. Von Grollerhagen refused to take the matter seriously.

"Pouf!" he said. "Surely you can trust this Lord Hawcastle not to mention it. He must know that the consequences for you as well as for me would be, to say the least, disastrous. Surely you made that clear to him."

Daniel smiled gently.

"No," he answered grimly. "He made it clear to me. Two years in jail, and if I don't make up my mind in fifty minutes from now to do what he wants me to do—"

"What is it that he wants you to do?" asked the German.

"The young lady's father trusted me to look after her, and if I won't promise to let her pay £150,000 for that—well, you've seen it around here, haven't you?"

"I have observed it, if you refer to the son of Lord Hawcastle," answered Von Grollerhagen gravely.

"Well, if I don't agree to that Ivanoff goes to Siberia and you and I to jail."

Von Grollerhagen looked at him quickly.

"He threatens that! What do you intend to do?"

"I can't agree. There wouldn't be any trouble to it if it was only me. They could land me for two years or twenty. But I can't do what they want, even to let you and Ivanoff out. It ain't my money. All I can do is to hint that you get out right away. Ivanoff can't go. They've got a ring around this place."

"You could get away, too, my friend," said the German, watching him softly. "You had not thought of that?"

"No, sir, and I'm not going to think of it. But you—"

"As for me, I shall go," said Von Grollerhagen, standing up.

"Well, that's part of the load off my mind. I haven't had the nerve to tell that poor fellow in there, though."

Von Grollerhagen motioned to Ribiere.

"Appellez le monsieur la!" he commanded and pointed to the other door of the chamber. The man opened it at once and beckoned to Ivanoff.

"Ivanoff, some unexpected difficulties have arisen," said the German. "The police have discovered your presence here, and persons who wish evil to my friend have threatened to make trouble. He can do nothing further to save you unless he betrays a sacred trust."

"It's the truth, old man," said Daniel feelingly. "I can't do it."

For a moment the Russian refugee staggered and supported himself with his hand on the table. Then he looked up.

"I thank you for what you have tried to do."

Von Grollerhagen went on:

"In the meantime my friend believes Naples a safe place for me. And so auf wiedersehen."

Pike extended his hand, which the German took.

"Goodby, doc, and God bless you!" he said. And Von Grollerhagen squeezed Pike's fingers.

"To our next meeting," he said and in a moment was gone.

To be Continued.

BJORNSON'S POPULARITY.

Remarkable Military Greeting For the Norwegian Novelist.

One day while in Norway an opportunity was given to L. P. Richards to verify the statement that the name of Bjornstjerne Bjornson, the Norwegian poet, means as much as the Norwegian flag. "A battalion of Norwegian and Swedish cavalry, infantry and artillery, between 3,000 and 4,000 strong, was returning from its maneuvers to the post in Christiania," he says. "In passing Aulestad the general in command sent his adjutant in advance to get Bjornson's permission to bring him an ovation. With his family and guests assembled about him on the veranda, the monumental figure stood with bared head to receive the military greeting."

"As each regiment passed in review below, presenting arms to their chieftain, there went up a deafening shout of personal salutation from each of the soldiers, who then joined in singing the national hymn, to whose author they were offering this spontaneous salute. There was the unique spectacle of a man in private life being accorded a military, spontaneous demonstration by the nation's army which a king might envy."

"My object," said Mr. Wells, "is to begin a campaign for more sensible gowns at commencement exercises. Too many poor people spend comparatively large sums on such gowns. If every one could afford it the custom would be all right."

"The French naval authorities now believe, according to a dispatch from Toulon, that they have discovered a precious auxiliary in a luminous shell recently invented and with which experiments have been made with great secrecy. The shell, according to a description given, is fired at a high angle, and when it bursts it scatters luminous balls over a large part of the horizon, enabling one to discover a ship within a radius of sixteen or eighteen miles."

Honors That Will Be Paid to the Discoverer of Lake Champlain on the Three Hundredth Anniversary of the Historic Event.

Elaborate Preparations for Celebrating Famous Section's History. President Taft and Several Distinguished Men to Attend.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

THE centenaries in this year of years are so thick it is hard to keep track of them. Not only notable births and deaths are commemorated, but discoveries and even inventions. Now it is the tercentenary of the discovery of Lake Champlain, and a little later it will be the like anniversary of the discovery of the Hudson river, coupled with which will be the centenary of Fulton's first steamboat and its memorable trip on the same river.

The discovery of Lake Champlain occurred on July 4—prophetic day!—in the year 1609. The discoverer was Samuel de Champlain, a Frenchman who had founded the city of Quebec the previous year. These facts are stated not in an effort to compete with the school historians, but only because they furnish the reason for the celebration. Lake Champlain is rich not only in beautiful scenery—mountains on both sides, rugged shores and abrupt islands—but in historical associations. As the gateway to Canada it became a battleground of the French and English in their early struggles to control the continent and later between the Americans and the English in the Revolution and the war of 1812.

The celebration is meant to cover all of this. It is not a memorial of the discovery alone, but of the great events that have occurred since the discovery. It includes Ethan Allen and Ticonderoga, Benedict Arnold and his sunken ships, Macdonough and his inspiring victory. It is to be a panorama of three centuries. It carries the beholder from savagery to twentieth century civilization, from the virgin wilderness to the parked estates and the you should read Champlain's narrative. Perhaps you have already perused it in your school histories. At any rate, it is a fearful and wonderful tale, and were it for the fact that Champlain discovered that lake and that he stands so high in other ways he would lay himself open to the charge of trying to rival Munchausen. According to his thrilling account, he loaded that blunderbuss with a lot of bullets and at the first shot killed—oh, I don't know how many chiefs, but it was either three or four.

The Iroquois were naturally stupefied by this new kind of boom-fire weapon that slaughtered all their chiefs at one bang—as much surprised, no doubt, as are those African animals at the shooting of Bwana Tumbo—and after one of Champlain's companions had also let off his gun the noble red man ignobly turned tail and broke down the brush in his mad stampede. It was a glorious victory for the Algonquins, but not for the French, as after events went to prove. The powerful Iroquois never forgot that day, and their hatred for the French endured forever. They became allies of the English and assisted materially in keeping the French from capturing what is now New York and portions of New England and eventually aided the British in their struggle with the French for control of the continent. On that eventful trip Champlain not only discovered a lake for which he was not looking, but set in motion causes that changed the current of history. The unconscious agents have done more in writing the annals of the human race than those who planned their own way carefully beforehand. When Julius Caesar whipped "all Gaul that is divided into three parts" he with rocks and trees in the most realistic fashion, on which the Indian fight will take place. Champlain participating, even killing his four chiefs at one shot. These Indians are to be descendants of the very ones that sailed on the original expedition. The Indian version of "Hiawatha" is also to be reenacted. The island is to be towed about from place to place during the progress of the fete. Benedict Arnold's old ship Revenge has been raised out of the water where it has been resting since he sunk it after the fight with the British and will be added to the pageant. Fort Ticonderoga, which Ethan Allen took "in the name of the Great Jehovah and the Continental congress," is to be restored, at least partially, and will figure in the celebration. Macdonough's victory over the British in 1814 will play its part, and on Isle Lamotte the cornerstone of the great lighthouse already mentioned will be laid.

The Week's Program.

The celebration is the result of the joint actions of the states of New York and Vermont, and its official program will be something as follows:

The fete commences at Burlington, Vt., on the 4th with special religious observance. Champlain was a devout adherent of the Catholic faith. In view of this, the religious services will be under the supervision of that church. Cardinal Gibbons and a large body of the clergy, including a delegation from the Canadian hierarchy, will participate in the elaborate observances.

The holiday proper will begin at Crown Point Monday, July 5. Here are the ruins of a fort which figures in the history of the French and Indian wars and the Revolutionary war. At this point there will be literary exercises, and the pageant will be presented in the afternoon and again at night. During the week there will be presented at these various points twenty-four pageants, or tableaux, nine representing the history of the Iroquois confederacy down to the arrival of the Dutch in this section of the country and fifteen illustrating the religious ceremonies and social customs of the Iroquois and Algonquins in war and peace. The most interesting of the subjects to be depicted are perhaps the two chief incidents in the progress of the explorer—namely, his discovery of the lake which bears his name and the battle between the Huron-Algonquian allies and the fighting Iroquois, in which he had a hand.

The Indian pageant of the Indian drama, written specially for the event, will be repeated on the floating island at Ticonderoga, the island being towed from Crown Point to "Old Tl," about twenty miles south. Here the Pells, multimillionaires of New York, are reconstructing from ancient cuts and documents the famous fort that was the scene of brave old Ethan Allen's memorable coup in 1775. The governor of New York and the New York legislature and the governor of Vermont will be present at this event.

Plattsburg and Burlington.

Wednesday, July 7, is Plattsburg's day. Near that city Benedict Arnold fought and lost the first naval action of the American Revolution. His flagship, the Royal Savage, has been lying where she sank in that fight for 133 years. What remains of the old fighter is in a fair state of preservation. It is a part of the program to raise the hulk and rig it up so as to give it a place in the show. The barge Revenge, one of the fleet, has been raised and will be in the pageant. It was at Plattsburg that McComb on land and Macdonough on water won their victory Sept. 11, 1814, which earned them the thanks of congress and the gold medal of the nation. President Taft and his party and the French ambassador and Sir Wilfrid Laurier will be entertained at a hotel on the 7th. A banquet, water sports, fireworks and illuminations will occur in conjunction with the other events of the occasion.

The pageant, with all of its incidental attractions, will be repeated at Burlington, Vt., on Thursday, July 8. Vermont's old home week will be observed at the same time.

Friday, July 9, the celebration will be continued at Isle Lamotte, near the head of the lake. This place is where Champlain first encamped. Besides the pageant at this point, there will be patriotic exercises conducted by the Daughters of the American Revolution and Colonial Dames. These exercises will include the dedication of a boulder to the memory of the Revolutionary heroes Colonel Seth Warner and Captain Remember Baker. Warner was second in command under Allen in the taking of Ticonderoga, and on the day following he took Crown Point. He was also with Montgomery in Canada. Baker was a scout and was killed while doing duty.

St. Albans and other towns in the Champlain valley will also observe the occasion. The lake has water connection with the Hudson, and two torpedo boats are to be sent through the connection to take part in the events, and the war department will exhibit its dirigible balloons at Burlington.

Artillery Against Air Craft.

"The balloons and airships have made it necessary for artillerymen to work out a new set of mathematical tables for firing at air craft," writes Newton Forest in Harper's Weekly. In the defense against aerial attack the firing of the gun must necessarily be of the high angle kind, and the weapon must be capable of rapid training in a wide arc. Such a weapon has been designed and manufactured by the Krupp works at Essen, says the author, and has been placed at the disposal of the German war office. The fieldpiece is of 2½ caliber and fires a nine pound shell with a velocity of 2,000 feet per second, and there is also a weapon designed for fortifications or shipboard.

STOMACH AGONY.

Abolish the Cause, and Misery and Distress of Indigestion will Vanish.

Can indigestion be cured? Hundreds of thousands of people who suffer from belching of gas; biliousness, sour stomach, fullness, nausea, shortness of breath, nervousness and other distressing symptoms, are asking themselves that question daily.

And if these same doubting dyspeptics could only read the thousands of sincere letters from people who once suffered as badly as they do now, but have been quickly and permanently cured by the use of Mi-o-na, the mighty dyspepsia remedy that cures by removing the cause, they would go to F. B. Johnson & Co. this very day and get a large box of Mi-o-na tablets, and start themselves on the right road to health at once.

The price of Mi-o-na tablets is only 50 cents, and F. B. Johnson & Co. guarantees them to cure indigestion, or money back.

Thin or lean or scrawny people will find in Mi-o-na a maker of flesh and blood, because it causes the stomach to extract more nutritious matter from the food, which quickly enriches the blood.

BOOK WRITING COMPETITION.

Two Thousand Dollars in Prizes Awarded by Sunday School Union.

In February, 1908, the American Sunday School union of Philadelphia offered $2,000 in prizes for three books to be issued under the John C. Green income fund. For the best book on "Christian Principles in Our Rural Districts—How to Make Them a Controlling Influence," $1,000 was offered. For the best book on "The Bible an Attractive Book" a prize of $800 was offered and for the next best on the same subject $400. The competition closed April 1 last.

The society received a large number of manuscripts in response to this offer, many of them of a high order of merit. The committee reported the results of its painstaking examination of the manuscripts at a meeting of the board held on June 8. The prize of $1,000 for the best book on "Christian Principles in Our Rural Districts" was awarded to the manuscript entitled "Rural Christendom; or, The Problems of Christianizing Country Communities," marked "Bertram Rothcarl."

The prize of $800 for the best book on the topic "The Bible an Attractive Book" was awarded to the manuscript entitled "The Magnetism of the Bible," marked "M. L. M." and the prize of $400 for the next best work on the same topic was awarded to the manuscript entitled "The Attractiveness of the Bible—An Appreciation."

Upon opening the sealed envelopes after the awards were declared it was found that the manuscript on the first topic was written by the Rev. Charles Roads, D. D., of Philadelphia. The best work on the second topic was written by Malcolm L. MacPhail, 2 Waumbuck street, Boston, and the next best work on the second topic was written by George Huntington, Northfield, Minn.

THIN FOLKS MADE FAT.

Good healthy flesh can only be gained by the use of the proper food, together with natural action of the organs of assimilation. Nine people out of ten in order to weigh as much as they ought and be perfectly healthy, should use Samose, the great flesh-forming food and health restorer. Weigh yourself before commencing to use these little tablets, and see how your weight increases from week to week.

Samose does not contain a particle of starch or pepsin, nor is it any nauseating preparation, such as is usually recommended to make people fat, and which does not build up good healthy tissues. Samose has valuable flesh-forming properties, tones up and strengthens the whole system, helps the food that is eaten to be assimilated in a natural manner, and absolutely restores health to all the organs.

If you are not perfectly satisfied with the results from Samose F. E. Wolcott will return your money without any squabbling.

The Want Advertisements Are "Humanizing"

When more people come to use and answer Want and For Sale Advertisements, more people will know each other—

MORE PEOPLE WITH MUTUAL INTEREST WILL MEET—

more people will find channels and opportunities for reciprocal service. Truly, the Daily Republican Want Ads are "humanizing" people—shaming away the scorn of small things, the scorn of "bargaining," of exchanging useful but not used things for useful and usable ones.

PREPARING FOR A HOME-COMING

St. Paul Citizens Expect to Entertain Ten Thousand Visitors at Event This Year.

COMMITTEES ARE SELECTED

Every Preparation is Made to Make the Occasion a Gala One For All.

The citizens of the enterprising little city of St. Paul are making arrangements for their second annual home coming which will be held in that place on August 3, 4, 5, and 6, says the Shelbyville Republican.

Over 5000 people attended the event last year and there gives promise of being twice that number this year, as it will be well advertised all over this section of the State. There will be many free attractions, such as balloon ascensions, parachute drops, merry-go-rounds, band concerts, baby show, fireworks every night, horse show, automobile parade and many other attractions "too numerous to mention."

Already a large amount of advertising has been sent out by the advertising committee and upon the invitations are found the following self-explanatory assertion: "It would be impossible to name all the great attractions on a bill of this size. Come, rain or shine, and have a good time with us." The invitations are general and everybody in this section of the State is invited to attend.

One of the prime movers for the success of the movement is Walter Kaler, editor of the Telegram in that place. Mr. Kaler has already begun to give space in his paper in advertising the event and the success of the event will be largely due to the efforts of the man who wields the pen.

In order to systemize the details connected with the affair a number of committees have been appointed. They are as follows:

On Arrangements—O. Hungerford, Roy C. Kanouse, L. A. Jewett, Roy Murphy, John L. Jackson.

Advertising—L. A. Jewett, Roy C. Kanouse, B. F. Mason.

Privileges—Roy Murphy, Walter Hungerford, Walter A. Kaler.

Finance—O. Hungerford, John Simpson, Geo. M. Kanouse, Geo. W. Boling, Kenneth Jewett, Charles W. Pagel, M. E. Ayres.

Decorating—Clarence Ketchum, O. M. Templeton, C. F. Kappes, Lawrence Guess, E. V. Perkins, Theo. Brooks, E. W. Stockhart, B. F. Mason.

Women's Committee on Arrangements—Mrs. Ollie Kanouse, president; Mrs. Cora Hess, first vice president; Miss Phoebe Phillips, second vice president; assisted by every woman in the town.

Horse Show—O. Hungerford, Roy C. Kanouse, Walter A. Kaler.

Auto Parade—Dr. C. W. Pagel, Dr. J. W. Bell, George W. Boling, C. F. Kappes, I. D. Jewett.

Judges of Horse Show—George Hess, Dennis Wilson, Tuck Palmer-ton.
